Glenwoods are Brim Full of Good Things

The Glenwood Balanced Baking Damper is far ahead of any other—it is as positive as the turning of a railroad switch—open to start the fire, closed to bake—just this one damper for kindling or baking and best of all, it can't warp or stick.

The Glenwood Revolving Coal Grate is easy to shake at all times, and simply fine for removing clinkers. It is triangular in shape, with three different sides for wear.

The Ash Pan rests on a roller bearing frame—just open door and it rolls out at the slightest touch, neat and clean.

The Glenwood Shelf Under Oven Door is not stationary—it automatically raises and lowers as oven door is opened or closed. It is always level with oven bottom—a great convenience when basting meats or removing food.

The Glenwood Sectional Top is interchangeable—cross pieces can not warp—a wash boiler can be placed at the back as well as in front for quick heating, leaving the front holes free for cooking.

Glenwood Iron is smooth and perfect—the easiest of any to clean—a real delight to the most exacting housekeeper. Get one and you'll be glad ever after.

IS ALL READY FOR THE FRAY

Washington Rather Expects the Unconditional Withdrawal of Roosevelt

Washington, June 12.—The transition from Associate Justice Hughes to Presidential Candidate Hughes was enacted in a twinkling Saturday afternoon, and Washington was greatly absorbed thereby. The frigid, almost forbidding judge, who walked in the morning in the northwest section of the city, suddenly unbent as the news ticked from the Chicago wires. The closed doors of his Sixteenth street residence flew open. The candidate himself stood forth, even to shake hands with the reporters. His resignation was written, his message of acceptance on paper. He was ready for the fray, fully harnessed for a hard campaign.

Republicans yet in town like this new aspect of their standard bearer, even though his transition seemed almost as mechanical as the shifting of a scene upon the stage. The sudden expression of his opinions on current issues, although suggestive of echoes from political quarters of recent months, was refreshing to partisans, who hoped these would mollify the colonel at Oyster Bay and impel him to decline the Bull Moose honors. A prominent western editor, who tarried in town during May, declared that Justice Hughes was the fisherman of the supreme court. Saturday's happenings, of course, with all the readiness of paraphernalia indicate that Justice Hughes had made up the afternoon's announcement in anticipation of what the Chicago convention would do.

All the federal capital is now on tiptoe to know what Roosevelt will do and whether a third ticket will actually remain afloat. It was suspected that Hughes' prompt action may have fitted in with a general understanding by which Roosevelt would retire as soon as the Republican nominee had made public his articles of faith.

Congress Saturday oozed almost completely out. The House was in session for a couple of hours to adopt a special rule for consideration this week of the fortifications bills. The purpose of the rule is to enable to purchase on the appropriation measure of young John Hays Hammond's patent for steering torpedoes by wireless.

CHARLES EVANS HUGHES—SHORT SKETCH OF LIFE

Republican Nominee First Came Into Prominence During Insurance Investigation in New York in 1905 and 1906.

Charles Evans Hughes was born in Glens Falls, N. Y., April 11, 1862, making him four years younger than ex-President Roosevelt and six years younger than President Wilson. His father was a Baptist minister and his mother was a devout woman, who shaped his early education with the idea of preparing him for the ministry. The family moved to Newark, N. J., when he was a boy, and during his young manhood it settled in New York City. Brilliant always as a student, young Hughes graduated from a New York high school at the head of his class at the age of 15, so young that his father would not permit him to enter college for a year. He attended Colgate (the Madison) university at Hamilton, N. Y., two years, and was graduated from Brown university in 1881, one of the five Phi Beta Kappa honor men of his year. Finally he attended the Columbia university law school, holding the prize fellowship from 1884 to 1887. At the beginning of his career Mr. Hughes was an instructor in Greek and mathematics at an academy in Delhi, N. Y. A chiding remark from the principal of the academy to the effect that young Hughes would have trouble controlling the discipline of his classes because he had "no more beard than an egg," is cited in innumerable biographical records of Mr. Hughes as having been responsible for the Hughes beard, which has since figured so largely in political caricatures.

Following a short experience as an educator, Mr. Hughes became a law clerk in the office of Stewart L. Woodford, who later was elected lieutenant-governor of the state of New York, but his health was undermined by his work and

YOU CAN HAVE PINK CHEEKS

What causes the color to fade from pink cheeks and red lips? In a word it is thin blood.

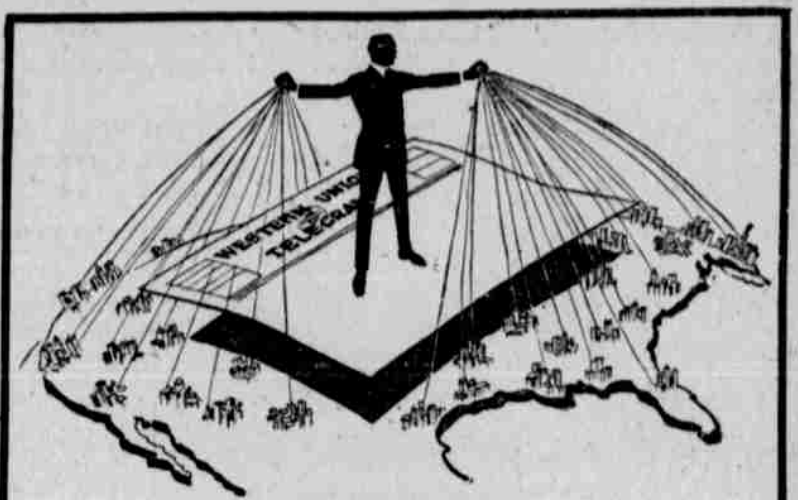

When the fading color in cheeks and lips is accompanied by a loss of brightness in the eyes and an increasing heaviness in the step, the cause is to be sought in the state of the blood.

A hundred causes may contribute to the condition of thin blood that is known as anemia. Overwork, lack of outdoor exercise, insufficient rest and sleep, improper diet, these are a few of them. The important thing is to restore the blood to normal, to build it up so that the color will return to cheeks and lips.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the great blood builder and invigorator. They begin at once to increase the red corpuscles in the blood and the new blood carries strength and health to every part of the body. Appetite increases, digestion becomes more perfect, energy and ambition return.

A booklet, "Building Up the Blood," will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. If you mention this paper, your order will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50.

Warning Would-Be Farmers.

Three principal causes of failure assail the cohorts of the untrained who migrate to the country: Lack of experience, lack of psychological adaptation to country living conditions, and lack of finances. Many men go into the country without knowing how to harness a horse, when oats ought to go into the ground, how much grain to feed, and hundreds of other things that are so instinctive with the farm-bred man that he does not think about them at all as he does them. The necessity of using a pump for water and of making one's own fires may wear down the city man's patience to the breaking-point. Often he will not know how to get along with his neighbors or how to adjust himself to the social customs of the country-side. The comparative isolation after the excitement of the city is another factor. The city man who fares countryward must be educated to appreciate the lonely song of the whip-poor-will. There is no cabaret on the next block.—William Merriam Rouse in The Countryside Magazine for June.

New Orleans, La.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough, for I know my daughter never would have been so well if she had not taken it. For more than a year she had suffered agonies from irregularity, backache, dizziness, and no appetite, but is now well. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers and daughters and you can publish this letter."—Mrs. A. ESTRADA, 129 N. Galvez Street, New Orleans, La.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"My daughter was feeling tired and all run down with no apparent cause. She had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before and knew its value so she again purchased it and she was able to keep to work, her eyes became bright and natural, and her system was built up completely. We generally keep the Vegetable Compound in the house for it is to be relied on."—Mrs. E. J. PURDY, 5131 Race Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

SALT RHEUM IN WATER BLISTERS

On Hands, Red and Rough. Would Crack Open and Itch and Burn.
Could Not Sleep.

HEALED BY CUTICURA
SOAP AND OINTMENT

"I had salt rheum on my hands. It came in little water blisters which began to itch and fester and then I was treated but it did me no good. My hands were red and rough and would crack open and bleed and they would itch and burn so that I irritated them by scratching, causing disfigurement. I could not sleep and I could not do work of any kind."

"At last I sent for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The sample did so much good that I bought one box of Cuticura Soap and one box of Ointment, and in a short time I was perfectly healed."

Magnesia Constant Necessity.

A cake of magnesia and a clothes brush are a frugal woman's best friends. After brushing a dusty gown, rub both sides of any soiled spots with the magnesia, which comes in cakes for that purpose, hang it away for a day or two and then brush again. The spots will be found to have disappeared. Care taken with dainty clothing is the secret of dressing well on limited means.

The late Mme. Modjeska had a wonderful collection of laces which were worn instead of being kept for show alone. They were cleaned with magnesia, liberally sprinkled through the meshes, the whole wrapped in tissue paper to remain until the chalk absorbed all the dirt.

Topics of the Home and Household.

When boiling old potatoes, add a little milk to the water. This will keep them from turning dark.

If your sewing machine skips stitches, try loosening the screw that holds the needle in place, let the needle drop a trifle and tighten up again.

When taking hot potatoes from the oven, pull over your hands little bags that sugar comes in. Anybody is apt to burn hands or arms in turning potatoes or taking them from the oven, and these little bags are convenient to have for protection.

Clean the baby carriage wheels before the carriage is brought into the house. Perhaps the best way to do it is to use a vegetable brush with a handle, which can be bought for five cents. Hang the brush outside the door in a handy but inconspicuous place.

Celery and Grapefruit Salad—Cut the fruit in thirds lengthwise, remove the pulp and cut up with an equal amount of crisp celery. Re-fill the shells with this mixture and garnish with celery tips. Serve with mayonnaise dressing.

Precipitated chalk is excellent for cleaning tarnished silver. Place a little in a saucer and add just enough liquid ammonia to moisten it. Rub this lightly over the silver, and the stains will quickly disappear. Then wash in hot water, dry carefully, and polish with a clean chamois leather.

Encouraging Order in Children.

There is one way to encourage a child to be neat, says the Philadelphia North American. That is to provide it with proper places in which to put away its belongings. A tiny clothes tree, a diminutive chest of drawers are incentives. As an incentive to keep its shoes in order, make the youngster a small shoe bag. The bag can be fashioned from one strip of material turned up at the bottom and stitched to form little pockets. On the outside of each pocket outline in delicate blue or pink a shoe, or vary the decoration by embroidering on one compartment the word "shoe."

Rind the top of the pocket and the edges of the bag with blue tape.

A mother cannot expect a child to be tidy if she does not arrange hooks or shelves at a convenient height for the youngster.

Why Flannels Shrink.

One good reason is that soap has been rubbed on them instead of soap jelly being used.

Secondly—They have either been washed or rinsed in water too hot or too cold.

Thirdly—They have been allowed to lie about wet instead of being hung up to dry immediately.

Fourthly—They have been dried too slowly.

Fifthly—They have been dried so close to an open fire that they steamed.

Sixthly—They have been ironed while wet with a very hot iron.

Cooking Kidneys.

Kidneys are not very much eaten in this country. They are served on restaurant menus as a sort of delicacy. Yet many of us hardly consider them worth ordering in our own homes. They are delicious when properly cooked, and here are some of the methods of cooking them that give best results:

Broiled Kidneys—The best lamb's kidneys, absolutely fresh, should be chosen for broiling. Wash them thoroughly and plunge them into salted-boiling water. Remove it from the fire and leave for five minutes. Then cut the kidneys almost in two, not severing them, but spread each flat and fastening it open with a skewer. Dip in melted butter and broil brown. Serve with croutons.

Kidneys and Bacon—Chop fine a medium-sized onion and mix it with a teaspoon of bread crumbs, a tablespoon of chopped parsley, the grated rind of half a lemon and one well beaten egg. Spread this mixture on slices of bacon and wrap each slice of bacon around a well washed kidney. Skewer the bacon in place and bake the kidneys in the oven until done. Serve with a brown gravy.

Sautéed Kidneys—Slice the kidneys in three or four slices and put them in a skillet with a tablespoon of butter. Cover and cook for five minutes. Then uncover and cook until well done, turning often. Thicken the gravy in the pan, season well and pour over the kidneys on a hot dish.

Kidney Omelet—Boil kidneys until tender, drain and slice very thin. Add to an omelet when it is ready to roll.

Kidney Croquettes—Boil kidneys and chop fine. Mix them—two cups—with two tablespoons of bread crumbs, a teaspoon of chopped onion, pepper and salt to taste, and a beaten egg. Form into rolls; dip into bread crumbs and beaten egg and brown in deep, hot fat.

Kidney on Toast—Boil kidneys tender, drain, chop and mix with cream sauce. Serve on slices of crisp, hot toast.

Kidney Patties—Prepare the creamed kidneys and put them into patty cases. Sprinkle with chopped parsley.
